Join us in building a sustainable future

ECN is the largest energy research institute in the Netherlands. Our mission is to develop knowledge and technology to enable a transition to a sustainable energy system. Therefore we put a lot of energy in making tomorrows energy green, clean and durable. Energy innovation requires brainwork and a true passion for the goal we're thriving for. The most important capital ECN has is the innovative mental capacity of our workforce.

At ECN we are constantly looking for innovative thinkers who share our passion. Are you energized by that goal? Do you also have affinity with a sustainable society and would you like to work in an inspiring working environment? Are you the professional who can contribute to the services that we offer in sustainable energy research and development? If so, please visit:
